

Dear Colleagues, dear leaders and friends

Thank you for taking the time to read this letter, in this unpredictable and dramatic time when emotions are high, and we are all flooded with bad news and alarming statistics. Times are challenging, it seems like we don't have much under control. Following the news from India and the whole World, we all feel the same, we all have such a simple dream and wish – to be healthy, to be able to work and to live without the fear, without restrictions. It seems that the pandemic has reached its most dramatic peak and we would like to express our empathy and care for all of you.

We would like to share with you that we were very much looking forward to meeting and engaging with you in our Leadership Conclave later in May. We would like to thank all of you for your registration and it shows your interest to learn and develop together. Taking into consideration the current circumstances and challenges present in India these days, we know you all, as leaders, are having so many issues on your plate and we understand your priorities are directed by current crisis management. Therefore, we agreed to wait for the time that would allow you to be more included and focused on your own development, hopefully soon, when the pandemic is under control.

We have prepared an inspiring program for you as leaders, focusing on reflection about resilience, flexibility and leadership in difficult times, and we are very much looking forward to sharing some ideas and also to learn about your experience and best practices.

To teach and to learn together is our dedication, to empower and encourage you is our passion and mission. To share some "pearls" of feelings, please look at the photo taken during our second Leadership Conclave in Goa, held in 2018. It is a special moment of unity, moment of joy and hope for the future. If we want to learn from it as leaders, let us be bold and firm as the father, loving and caring as the mother and hopeful and playful as the child. Waves will come and go, sun will come up and down, but we will hope together for a better and healthier future in India and in the whole World.

Straight from our hearts, with much love and care, we send you our support and strength and we are counting the days to get together.

With our best wishes

Yours truly, Arijana, Mike and Bob
